Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.In response to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the Navy s plans to establish a second source for the Aegis combat system shipyard test and integration function. Specifically GAO reviewed the: (1) cost-effectiveness of second sourcing this function; (2) selection and role of the second source contractor; (3) effects second sourcing will have on the quality of the system; and (4) ability of other contractors to perform this function. GAO found that the Navy: (1) had not completed its cost analysis of second sourcing the Aegis shipyard integration and testing function; (2) decided to develop a second source without considering cost; (3) stated that some duplication of effort would initially exist between the two contractors test team personnel; and (4) emphasized that, although some costs would be involved in setting up a second source, no additional facility or equipment costs would be incurred. GAO also found that the second source contractor: (1) would not replace existing shipyard test team members; (2) is needed due to an increase in the number of ships completing construction and undergoing overhaul; and...
