In the year of 1824, in North Garden, Albemarle County, Virginia, a man who was cradling wheat where I labored, striking a stalk with his cradle, wounded himself in the leg; after stopping the blood and dressing the wound he continued to work until night. At supper time the blood again commenced to flow from the wound, and from the loss of blood and fatigue he fainted. I coming in at tie time and seeing him lying on the floor, was greatly frightened, and as I could not bear the sight, I immediately left and seated myself on the fence, about two hundred yards from the house, under a cherry tree, in the light of the moon. The foregoing accident had thrown me into a deep reflection about the uncertainty...
